The railroad is advertising a rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip on the occasion of the celebration of Pilot Knob September 27th. It occurs to us that the committee should secure a better rate than this.

The new Baptist church is just about completed. It is a handsome and attractive structure and reflects credit on the congregation and the builder, Mr. G. A. Buckley. The structure will be ready for occupancy in a few days.

Mr. Edgar, as chairman, has issued a call for the judicial committee of this circuit to meet at De Soto Saturday, July 30th at 2 o'clock P. M. The manner of naming a nominee for Judge will probably be determined.

A young lady, Jessie Moore, about seventeen years of age, committed suicide at her home near Caledonia last Monday by shooting herself with a revolver. What was the occasion of the rash act has not been ascertained.

Two troops of the Eleventh Cavalry arrived at Arcadia station on No. 8 last Thursday, occupying two special cars. The horses belonging to these troops are at Fort Riley, Kansas, and during their stay here they will be without horses.

Mrs. Markham and Miss Fannie will take with them the best wishes of many friends here for health and happiness in their new home.

Henry Kendal heard some one in his chicken roost at an early hour last Friday morning. Henry loaded himself with a stick of stove wood and quietly hid to the hen house. He surprised the thief taking his pick of the chickens, but when Mr. Kendal appeared the intruder dropped his load and made good his escape.

Wm. Dooley, one of the participants in the famous Dooley-Harris feud in St. Francois county, was arrested in New Mexico last Sunday. Dooley killed Will Harris on a train near Doe Run three years ago, and the authorities have been endeavoring to locate him ever since. Sheriff Murphy of St. Francois county left Monday for New Mexico.

I have built a large warehouse at Arcadia where I will keep flour and feed of all kinds on hand, which I will sell at wholesale, in one thousand and pound lots, to merchants, thus saving them the freight on small lots. I also have wheat sacks on hand which I will furnish to farmers who wish to sell me their wheat, and for which I will pay the market price. LOUIS MILLER.

The company proposing to rebuild the dam and establish a club house at Iron Mountain has been issued articles of incorporation by the Secretary of State. The capital stock is $5,000, divided into 250 shares at $20 each. It is proposed to get the property in shape as soon as possible. The by-laws provide that the corporation shall be under the control of a board of directors who must be residents of Iron or St. Francois counties.

A marriage license was issued by recorder Hawkins yesterday to Sam P. Beck of Poplar Bluff and Miss Mattie Long of Munger. Both are deaf and dumb. Beck is a printer on the Poplar Bluff Citizen and Miss Long formerly lived in Des Arc. Rev. Steel will perform the ceremony to-day at the bride's home in Munger. In his long service in the ministry Mr. Steel tells us that this is the first time he has been called to solemnize marriage between two mutes.

The ice man says that, so far, this has been a very unsatisfactory and unprofitable season to him. He says that if the real hot weather of a few days of last week had continued for two weeks or more then he would have had a harvest. But he says just a few days of summer doesn't sell ice. He still has plenty of the natural ice on hand and will not have to import from St. Louis unless September and October are unusually warm. The consumption this year has not been anything like the average.

Were you ever tempted to think that the editor was indulging in personal "digs" when you saw something in the paper which seemed to fit your case? Discard that thought. Remember the old saying that "Many a shaft at random sent finds marks the archer little meant." Why only the other day we read of a Texas editor who published the ten commandments in his paper by request, with the result that he lost half of his subscribers before he could have time to explain in the next issue that no personal reflections were meant.—E.

Dr. J. L. Eaton received, this week, a Columbia Cabinet which is a complete and combined Static Electrical apparatus and X-Ray machine. This is the first machine of this kind ever brought into this section of country, and Dr. Eaton states that it is the largest and finest one he could buy, and a majority of physicians in neighboring towns have signified their intention of using this machine; as Bismarck is accessible by rail from almost every direction, this useful machine will be of advantage and benefit to a large section of country.—Bismarck Banner.

The world is too full of sadness and sorrow, misery and sickness; it needs more sunshine; it needs encouragers who will lift and not bear down, who will encourage, not discourage. Who can estimate the value of a sunny soul who scatters gladness and good cheer wherever he goes instead of gloom and sadness? Everybody is attracted to these cheerful faces and sunny lives, and repelled by the gloomy, the morose and the sad. We envy people who radiate cheer wherever they go and fling out gladness from every pore. Money, houses and lands look contemptible beside such a disposition. The ability to radiate sunshine is a greater power than beauty, or than mere mental accomplishments.—E.

About the time the State convention in Jefferson City got down to the business of nominating a candidate for railroad commissioner, the Iron county delegates were pretty well worn out and ready to come home. So they left the hall, giving Prof. Daugherty authority to cast the vote of the county and instructed him to vote for N. J. Winters. About the time the vote was being cast, the young ladies who were at the convention in the interest of Rube Oglesby, another candidate for railroad commissioner, got hold of the man who was voting Iron county, and the records show that he gave all the votes from Iron county to Oglesby. He will have to reckon with the delegates when he gets back here for violating his instructions.

A bulletin just issued by the University of Missouri explains the cause of the so-called "sting" of the apple that has destroyed so much of this valuable fruit since 1900, when it made its first appearance. A little bug about the size of an ordinary flea, known to horticulturists as the Plum Curculio, punctures the skin of the fruit for the purpose of eating the pulp and depositing its eggs. Dr. J. M. Stedman, author of the bulletin, recommends spraying the trees at intervals of ten days, twice before the blossoms open and four times before they fall; allowing the hogs to eat the fallen apples which contain large numbers of the insect; and cultivating the soil under the trees at least three times between the fifteenth of July and the middle of August.

A. Richards, who has been making his home here for the past three or four months, in the hope that it would prove beneficial to his health, died in a tent near Goulding's park, where he has been living for several weeks, last Saturday morning. Richards' home was in Cleveland, Ohio, and he was afflicted with lung trouble. Several years ago he served a sentence in jail here, imposed on him by the U. S. District Court in St. Louis for using the mails with the purpose of defrauding. After completing his time here he left, but returned a few months ago in very poor health. He came here, as he said, because his health seemed to have been better during his stay here than it had been any time since. The remains were taken to Cleveland for interment Monday morning.

St. Francois county, the storm center of political fights, is about to witness a unique battle between two great banking houses, if there be any truth to the many rumors abroad. The advent of the Fredericktown Trust Company into domains considered sacred to the Bank of Farmington is said to be the cause of the money changers' trouble. The former institution has been building branch banks throughout Southeast Missouri and Northern Arkansas. Several years ago it entered the lead belt towns of St. Francois county, and emboldened by success, recently marched right into the stronghold of its strongest enemy in this county—Farmington. It is now said that the Bank of Farmington, to punish the presumption of the new comer, has decided to invade Flat River with a branch bank.—Lead Belt News.

Original experiments conducted by the University of Missouri during a period of seven years show conclusively that the practice of placing diseased chinch bugs among the healthy ones in infested fields does little if anything towards checking the ravages of this insect. The entomologist who has conducted the experiments places a part of the blame for failure of the remedy upon the farmers themselves. "The persons receiving these bugs," he says, "were supposed to place them and healthy bugs in boxes similar to ours and to keep them under similar conditions until all were thoroughly diseased and then scatter the increased quantity throughout the wheat and corn fields. As a matter of fact, each of the seven years I have conducted the experiment, I have found that over half the farmers simply scattered the bugs we sent them."

It is not often that the REGISTER acknowledges with pleasure that it has made a mistake, but it does so in this instance:

FLAT RIVER, Mo., July 23, 1904.

Bro. Ed D.:—Since the shooting of myself at Doe Run, as stated by the REGISTER, on my return from Fair Land, I find the chances for editors that make mistakes in their sheets very real, but hope you will be pardoned as readily by the All-Wise as by me. If so, you are all right, if you correct the error. Hoping we may enjoy many years yet, with my best wishes, I am, as ever, J. A. PARKER. Ha! Ha!

It was some other Parker that untimely shuffled off this mortal coil, and my informant was deceived by the stamp of the coin. I am glad to learn that our own J. A. still lives to give the glad "Ha! Ha!" to the mistake, and earnestly trust that his end may be set to the furthest bounds.

One exhibit at the World's Fair that no visitor can afford to miss is that of the agricultural products of Missouri. This exhibit is considered by competent judges the best exhibit in agriculture that the world has seen in times ancient or modern. One half acre is occupied by corn, thirty five per cent. by wheat, oats and similar grains and the remainder by grasses. Three pyramids made entirely of corn are striking features of the exhibit. One of these, fifty feet high, stands in the center, the others smaller, are at the ends. Forming a border about the exhibit is a series of pictures made entirely of agricultural products showing the evolution of agricultural processes. The first of these shows a stick plow drawn by camels, the reap hook and the threshing flail, all of the time of Joseph; the last picture the modern steam plow at work in northwest Missouri and the modern machinery for reaping and threshing. The exhibit was prepared under the direction of H. J. Waters, Dean of the Missouri Agricultural College and is a meritorious work, a credit to the College and to Missouri.

My old friend, S. J. Jordan, of Des Arc, writes a letter in reference to the roads in his vicinity, every word of which I endorse. Another subscriber, residing adjacent to the Valley, also has a few general observations on the same subject, and I am glad to know that those interested are beginning to "speak out in meeting." Keep it up, brethren! While I know "talk is cheap," it nearly always precedes action. Though cheap, talk is sometimes valuable, paradoxical as it seems. I like a multitude of counsel, for it shows interest. That there is something lacking in the management of our road system—and, I hold, in the system itself—is evidenced by the deplorable condition of the highways. Why, fifteen years ago, our roads were our pride when contrasted with those of the surrounding counties; but now—we pass them silently by and hope for better in the future. I believe the main fault is in the law, which has been so much amended, and so strangely, of late years, that it is most exquisitely adapted to the prevailing requirements. Time was when road overseers were appointed by the court and held completely under its control, and in return the people held the court directly accountable for results. Now, the court must accept the overseers, chosen often without regard to their qualifications or sense of duty; the responsibility has been taken from it, and the work on the roads often drags along perfunctorily or is prosecuted with careless indifference to results. Not in all cases is this true, but with some of them. The election of road overseers at slimly attended school meetings, where little interest is often manifested, is a radical fault in the present system, and ought to be corrected. But until the law is changed we ought to strive to do the best possible under the prevailing statute. Suggestions are asked for and will be heartily welcomed. Let the people arouse themselves and show their interest in the work, and I am sure the county court, in so far as it can legally, will give its best efforts toward the end aimed at. As for the REGISTER, it knows we ought to have better roads, and it believes we can have them; and to this accomplishment it shall labor without ceasing, supplementing the desire of all good citizens.
